CUMBERLAND PRESBYTERIANS LOSE.

Court of Appeals Reverse Case From Union County—Judge Barker Hands Down Lengthy Opinion

NOTED ACTION—UNION INVOLVED—JUDGE NUNN DISSENTS.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 21.—The Cumberland Presbyterian church lost its case in Court of Appeals today in a lengthy opinion of Judge Barker from which Judge Nunn dissented. The case is Wallace and others vs. Hughes and other from Union county and the lower court is reversed.

The case involves the validity of the union between the Cumberland Presbyterian church and the Presbyterian church in the United States of America. The litigation arose over a consent between two factions of the Cumberland Presbyterian church at Sturgis, Ky., one of which favored the union, and the other opposed it. The Circuit Court decided in favor of that party which opposed the union, and held that the General Assembly and Presbyteries of the Cumberland Presbyterian church had exceeded their constitutional powers in forming the union.

The judgment holds that the right to form the union was either expressly given by Section 43 of the constitution, or that the right existed by necessary implication; that the question whether or not the creed of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America, as revised by the declaratory statement of 1903 made it to conform to the creed of the Cumberland Presbyterian church on the subject of foreordination, predestination, election and infant damnation, was a question of doctrine, faith and church dogma, and, therefore, exclusively within the jurisdiction of the church courts and their decision on this question is not reviewable by the civil tribunals; that where property is held by a congregation which is an integral part of a general church government, such as the Presbyterian, and the property has not been acquired in that way, then the right of the congregation to hold and enjoy this property depends upon its continuance as an integral part of the church government as a whole; that if there be a schism in the congregation and conflicting claims to the church property, the civil tribunals will award it so that party which can be identified as a part of the general church government or its lawful successor; that in the Presbyterian form of church government, the individual members have no voice in deciding questions of doctrine or faith; all ultimate power of this kind is reposed in the various church judicatories, commencing with the church sessions which is the lowest, and going up through the Presbyteries, the Synods and the General Assembly, which is the highest; that, by the Constitution of the Cumberland Presbyterian church that instrument of the creed or Confession of Faith, may be changed by a two-thirds vote of the General Assembly at a stated meeting, if the amendment be approved by a majority of the Presbyteries voting upon that question; that, if what was done to effect the union required a change in the constitution, then what took place was substantially an amendment to the constitution, because the plan of union was adopted by a two-thirds vote of the General Assembly at a stated meeting, and their action was approved by the majority of the Presbyteries of that church voting upon that question.

STANDING BY ASSOCIATION

Birmingham Farmers Satisfied with Organization.

And Prices Paid Through It For Their Tobacco Crops; Five Dollars Smallest Price.

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 19.—Perhaps a few lines from this section pertaining to tobacco interest would not be out of place on August 31, 1907, the Marshall County District Branch of the American Society of Equity Department of tobacco growers was organized. The 1907 crop, which was pledged to the association consisting of about 600,000 pounds and handled it well. The trash and low grade lugs in heavy order were sold at an average of $7.52 per hundred pounds. We dried all the leaf that we received together with about 50 hogheads of lugs and sold it all on the 12th day of May, 1908. F. O. B. our landing at $11.05 per hundred pounds. By taking from this amount $1.02½ for prizing, storing and insurance the net proceeds paid the farmer, less one half of one per cent commission, is left which amount is paid into the treasury of the organization to defray the expenses. Out of the 1908 crop about 1,400,000 pounds is pledged to be handled in the same manner as last year except a difference in the prizing expense of 5 cents on the low grades and 17½ cents on the re-dried tobacco.

The people of this place are well pleased and are standing by the organization. Only two houses are available in which to handle tobacco under this plan. More re-drying houses are needed for the 1909 crop. Every hoghead of re-dried tobacco is put up absolutely under a guarantee. So the grower takes no risk. The prices being received now at both houses and advancing are $4.50 to $7 per hundred on delivery, on leaf. The advance was about the same or a little better last year. Sales are made on re-dried tobacco; then it is then prized and shipped direct to Liverpool. When the bill of lading is signed and a copy delivered to the buyer, the money is due. Then every man gets his money according to grade.

Five dollars net last year was the smallest sum paid any grower for the lowest grade trash delivered. CHAS. E. SMITH, Department Chairman and Salesman.

Bugg-Thomasson.

Wednesday afternoon at half-past 2 o'clock, Mr. James S. Bugg and Miss Nellie Thomasson drove up to Rev. W. T. Oakley's residence on East Bellville street, accompanied by a score or more of friends, and were united in marriage by that urbane minister in his happiest style.

Rev. Oakley is never as happy as when he is uniting the lives and hearts of some loving swain, and he says the ceremony in an enthusiastic way which is contagious, and sends the couple along life's highway in the merriest of moods. This ceremony was no exception to the rule with Rev. Oakley and the couple are worthy of the high esteem in which they are held by every one who knows them.

Mr. Bugg owns a farm and has a home ready furnished to take his bonny bride to, and her friends say she will grace that home with goodness and dignity.

REFUSES A SALARY.

Mr. Cantrill's Work is a Labor of Love—President of Kentucky Society of Equity Issues Statement.

J. Campbell Cantrill, congressman from the Seventh district, and just elected president of the Kentucky Union of the American Society of Equity, has issued a statement that, although he was voted a salary of 1,000 at the Madisonville meeting, he refused to accept it and will not accept a cent, either as salary or expenses, for the work he does for the society.

Mr. Cantrill says:

"The principles of the American Society of Equity appealed to me as a farmer so strongly that I have cheerfully given and will continue to give my time to advance those principles. I do not hesitate to declare to the people of Kentucky that the great victories that have been won by the farmers of Kentucky in the sale of their tobacco is due almost entirely to the teachings of the American Society of Equity and to the organizations of the same society as a direct result of these teachings."

"The American Society of Equity is an educational organization. It is comprised of precinct, county, state and national unions, where each member, however humble he may be, has a voice in the affairs. The different tobacco associations in Kentucky are but the children of the American Society of Equity. The grave question before the farmers of Kentucky today is, Can the children—the different tobacco associations—survive and prosper without the parent—the American Society of Equity?"

"It is far from me to utter a word that would hinder any work to organize the farmers, but I trust I will be pardoned if I suggest that the American Society of Equity is the logical home and center for the union of all the different tobacco associations. Let the American Society of Equity send its organizers, workers and literature into the territory of each association and urge the farmers to pool their tobacco with that particular association which receives the benefits of this work contribute liberally to the support and maintenance of the American Society of Equity."

Corley-Roberts.

Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the residence of Rev. W. T. Oakley, Fannie L. Corley and Miss Annie Roberts were united in marriage. They were accompanied by Mr. Myrtle McDowell and Miss Nonie Dollins after the ceremony they returned to their home in the Tribune section.

The bride is an exceptionally bright and interesting young woman and has been for several terms one of the leading teachers of the county, she is a graduate of the Marion Graded High School. The groom is a sterling young farmer and is a handsome fellow entirely worthy of his bonny bride.

Olive-Heath.

On Thursday evening, Jan. 21st, 1909, at 7 o'clock Mr. Guy Olive, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Olive, and a valued employee of the Olive & Walker hardware store and Miss Lillian Heath the handsome daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forest B. Heath, of East Marion, were united in marriage in the parlor of Rev. W. T. Oakley home on East Bellville st. in this city. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a large audience of friends of the popular couple, all of whom wish them much joy in their wedded life. The bride who is quite young is exceptionally attractive and is popular with the young people in the circle in which she moves and in fact with every one who knows her. Mr. Olive was born and reared here and has lived here most of his life, and is well liked by our people on account of his quiet, gentlemanly manner, his sobriety and close attention to business.

The RECORD-PRESS wishes them a long, happy and prosperous life.

NO TOBACCO RECEIVED.

On account of large deliveries, I will not receive any more tobacco after Friday, Jan. 29th, until further notice.

HEAVY DAMAGE SUIT FILED AT MADISONVILLE.

Outgrowth of the Whisky Election—Preacher Charged with Running Blind Tiger.

Rev. Medyet, president of the Ohio Valley College at Sturgis, and a minister of the gospel, has filed suit at Madisonville against J. H. Young, a prominent and wealthy citizen, for $10,000 alleging defamation of character.

Rev. Midyet was secured to assist in the speaking during the closing days of the local option contest at Madisonville, and on Saturday afternoon addressed a crowd on the streets opposite the court house.

The defendant, who is a strong anti-prohibitionist, is alleged to have made the statement, in the presence of several, while the minister was speaking that "they say that preacher runs a blind tiger in connection with his college at Sturgis," or words of similar import.

The statement was reported to Rev. Midyet who promptly secured attorneys and filed suit as above stated.

It is understood that efforts will be made to compromise the suit.

Steamship Soo City, foundered off New Foundland; crew lost; December 4, 1908.

New York, Jan. 27.—The palatial ocean steamship Republic of the White Star line, which was in collision with the Italian liner Florida early Saturday morning off Nantucket, Mass., went down at half past eight o'clock last night. No one was lost. Her passengers taken off many hours before, are on the steamer Baltic, which was off Sandy Hook at a late hour making for this port.

The Republic was in tow of the revenue cutter Gresham and the derelict destroyer Seneca, proceeding to New York when she sank. On board her was Captain Sealby with a volunteer detail of fifty of her crew. She had been towed but a short distance when she began to settle rapidly. Seeing no hope of saving the ship, the captain gave the order to abandon it and the crew was taken off by the Gresham, which cast loose from the crippled liner and stood by until she sank. The Gresham and the Seneca then headed for the Massachusetts coast and will land Captain Sealby and his crew at Newport, R. I.

The point where the Republic went down is described in brief wireless messages received here last night as off Na Man's Land, a small island south of Martha's Vineyard island, off the Massachusetts coast.

The Italian liner Florida, which crashed into the Republic in the dense fog off Nantucket early Saturday morning and gave her death blow, is steaming slowly toward New York, conveyed by the American liner New York. Her passengers are also on the Baltic, having been transferred in the early hours of the morning along with those of the Republic.

The Baltic, which was called by wireless telegraph to the aid of the Republic yesterday and transferred from the Florida not only that steamer's 900 or more passengers, but the 442 passengers and part of the crew of the Republic, is nearing the harbor of New York. She was in wireless communication with the Fire Island station at 11 o'clock last night, but did not define her position. The weather was very thick and she could not be sighted from the observation station on Fire Island. It is unlikely that the Baltic will come up the bay to-night, but will await daylight before proceeding to her pier.

Dead Man Prominent Banker.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 27.—W. J. Mooney, who was killed in the collision of the steamers Republic and Florida, was 62 years old and was engaged in banking and real estate business at Langdon, N. D. He was considered one of the wealthiest men in North Dakota. He leaves a son, John Mooney, deputy state bank examiner.

Six Dead and Two Injured.

That there was loss of life attending the collision was not known until an early hour Sunday morning. Then the wireless which has had its first great trial and proven its utility, brought the news that Mrs. Eugene

Lynch of Boston, and W. J. Mooney, a banker of Langdon, N. D., had been killed and Mrs. M. M. Murphy, wife of the financial agent of the Union Central Life Insurance company of Grand Forks, N. D., and Eugene Lynch of Boston, were injured. In addition to these casualties, among the passengers on the Republic, it was reported that four members of the Florida's crew had met death. The bodies of the dead and the injured persons were transferred to the Baltic.

How the unfortunate passengers on the Republic were killed or the nature of the injuries to Mrs. Murphy and Mr. Lynch is not known by officials of the White Star line, who have communicated with relatives of the dead and injured. Mooney and his wife were bound, with Mr. and Mrs. Murphy on a pleasure trip from the west to the Mediterranean and occupied state rooms on the top deck aft on the port side. Mr. and Mrs. Lynch occupied an adjoining state room.

Relatives Besiege Office.

The company cannot understand how the passengers were killed in that part of the Republic, as it is understood the ship was struck amidships. Anxious friends and relatives besieged the White Star offices with inquiries.

The bodies of the dead and injured passengers are on the steamer Baltic. The steamer Putnam has been chartered by the company and will go alongside the Baltic when she reaches quarantine Monday morning, as she is not expected up the bay to-night. The General Putnam will carry officials of the company and those who may desire to go down the bay to meet returning passengers from the Republic.

Spent Night of Terror.

Details of the collision at sea in the dense fog came by wireless today from many receiving stations along the New England coast line. The story in brief but potent messages told how the passengers of the Republic and the Florida spent many anxious and uncomfortable hours following the wreck, and not until 8 o'clock this morning, when all were safe and sound on the Baltic, did they have a feeling of security.

After the transfer of the passengers from the Republic to the Baltic, which had no accommodations for the 400 and more additions to her already heavy trip, Captain Voltin of the Italian ship gave orders to stand by until further help arrived.

An examination of the Florida showed that her cutwater and her bow had been crumpled as if she had crashed into a stone wall, and her two forward compartments were filled with water.

The Florida, however, showed no signs of sinking, though she was slightly down by the head.

Went Back to His Post.

The Republic drifted away in the muck and was lost to the sight of those on board the Baltic and Florida. Captain Sealby and a boat's crew drifted alongside the Republic in a gig and were keeping watch over the disabled liner. As the morning advanced the fog lifted and the disabled steamship was picked up. The sore liner seemed to be floating easier, and Captain Sealby and his boat crew, who had remained alongside all night, went on board. The wireless operator, who had stuck to his ship until ordered off by the captain, obtained some storage tanks and returned to the disabled Republic. Meanwhile a fleet of salvage tugs had arrived at the scene, and the American liner New York had taken a position near the Florida, while the Anchor liner Furnessia, which had come up during the night, stood by ready to render assistance. Shortly before 10 o'clock Captain Ransom received a wireless from his company's officials to bring the Baltic and the rescued passengers to this port without regard to the Republic. Within a few minutes of the order the Baltic headed away to the eastward for this port, and she is expected to arrive off Sandy Hook about midnight.

The French liner La Lorraine, the first of the many ships that participated in this stirring sea incident, arrived in port to-day. She was 120 miles from the scene of the accident when her officers were in-

Cash In Advance

And Stop When Time Is Out System Adopted,

The Publisher of the Record-Press has Decided to Adopt the Cash-in-Advance and Stop-When-Time-is-Out-Policy on all Subscriptions for the Following Reasons.

FIRST—The post-office regulations require us to stop the paper when the subscriber becomes nine months in arrears. We find that this requires constant watchfulness and when these subscriptions are stopped, the amounts due us are practically lost to us because we can not see the people personally and collect, and they do not find it convenient to call or remit, and in a short while the thing is forgotten.

SECOND—Because perhaps one half our subscribers tell us to stop when the time is out and the other half tell us to keep on sending the paper. It is impossible for our clerk to remember who wants it stopped and who wants it sent on, and confusion and in many cases mistakes and ill feeling occur.

THIRD—Because everything we buy we have to pay cash for and our employees have to have their money every Saturday night. The cost of newspaper production is heavily increasing and it takes cash to keep things going.

FOURTH—Because we have now on our books exceeding $4,000 due us on subscriptions, nearly every cent of which is good but is so scattered over the country that it is impossible for us to collect it when we need it most. We send out names occasionally and many respond promptly, while the majority do not, because they do not find it convenient just at the time and the matter is deferred. Finally the amount runs up to $3, $4, $5, $6 or $7—and then in many cases the subscriber can't pay and we have finally to stop the paper and lose this amount, when to have paid $1 at the beginning of each year would have been easy and satisfactory to both sides.

We give this notice in ample time for all subscribers to adjust their accounts. We want every subscriber to remain with us and believe it will be far more satisfactory to all concerned. Time was when the circulation of the RECORD-PRESS was small, and we knew personally almost every subscriber.

Now we furnish a paper much larger and better for the same price. It costs us nearly three times as much to furnish the present paper as it did a few years back. We cannot afford to carry on our book $4,000 in past due subscription accounts and we believe every reasonable man will agree with us.

On January 30th, 1909, the New System Will be Put Into Effect. On that Date All Past Due Subscriptions Will be Stopped and thereafter all Subscriptions will be Stopped Promptly at Expiration.

This is fair to everybody and is made necessary by reason of the postal regulations and sound business policy, as well as justice to all Our Subscribers

JAMES N. BANKS' TOBACCO TIDINGS.

The Recent Sale.

The recent sale, last week, of six millions of pounds of the 1908 crop calls for more than passing comment. Five million pounds were sold the John H. Hodges Tobacco Co., and one million pounds to the Gallagher Co. Mr. John H. Hodges is the local agent for the Regie Co., which company furnishes American tobacco to France, Spain and Italy, and also perhaps to other continental customers—though as to this last statement I am by no means certain. These Regie people aforesaid and up to, say, 1893, supplied in the main their requirements in the Clarksville district. In the last four years, however, the Regies have through Mr. John H. Hodges bought annually in the counties composing the Stemming District several millions of pounds of our stemming type of tobacco; which purchases prior to this last sale were all made from growers other than Association members. In other words, the sale of five million pounds to the Regies last week was the first sale ever made by this Association to the Regie people. I feel quite sanguine that for the future the Regies will prove good customers of the Stemming Association, which prediction I the more confidently write down since I am cognizant of the fact the Regies have for several years past bought annually of the Dark Protective Association millions of pounds of tobacco. If the Regies can deal harmoniously with one association I see no reason why they should not, especially now the ice is broken, continue to deal with the Stemming Association. Anyway we'll, if we never sell the Regies another pound, handle some four hundred thousand dollars of Regie money on the sale made last week.

The other sale made last week covered an additional million of pounds to the Gallagher Co., which sale brings the total sales to date to the Gallagher Co. to four millions of pounds.

The Hodges Co. were sold three millions of Hopkins county tobacco and two millions of Webster county tobacco. Gallagher gets half his purchase at Providence, Webster county tobacco, and the other half at Henderson, to be either fired or unfired.

Pretty soon, say by February 1st, I think it entirely safe to say the committee will begin to pay 75 per cent. on all tobacco delivered. Which of course will necessitate the same treatment as any other member, a further payment of 25 per cent. on all outstanding warehouse receipts. It takes an exceedingly nimble mind to keep up with the shifting phases and unforeseen exigencies arising daily. I had nearly written "hourly" in the evolution created by this farmers' co-operation movement. It affords me unalloyed pleasure to record my unshaken belief in the ability of the Association to take care of itself. And the Association is simply the aggregate mentality of the farmer cults of the five counties composing the Stemming District Association. The simple fact is, farmers read more, study more, think more than ever before, and in consequence are becoming day by day stronger and wiser and in consequence the better able to protect themselves from the onslaughts of organized rapacity and extortion.

I should like to continue in that vein to the length of another column, but yield to the clamor of members for quotations to which I direct my pencil for the remainder of this article: say the first dozen loads delivered to each factory yesterday.

All of which goes to show just how things are averaging up in Henderson. Of course the foregoing is only a sample; for fully two hundred loads were here yesterday. And a goodly number were held over. And so the town is full of loaded wagons to-night—what with holidayers and new arrivals, and deliveries will be very heavy to-morrow.

BILLIARD BALL IN

MOUTH FOR HOURS.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 27.—Three hours of labor, a pint of machine oil, a crowbar, a constable, a doctor and the sacrifice of three front teeth were required to remove a billiard ball from the mouth of James Robbins, a billiard enthusiast of Melrose. The operation was performed on the top of a billiard table at the Melrose Billiard Parlors and will go down into medical history as one of the most unusual on record.

Robbins was dared by a friend to put a ball in his mouth. Bearing somewhat of a reputation for his achievements with the cue and balls, he felt that his honor was at stake and he dared not refuse.

He realized the truth of the saying that you never can tell by looks what a billiard ball is going to do. The sphere rolled into his mouth with suspicious ease and then stubbornly refused to come out. It clung affectionately to the roof of Robbins' mouth and scorned all of the advances and entreaties which were made by the billiardist's friends.

Persuasion, harsh words and machine oil were without avail. Then, believing that strength might accomplish that which diplomacy had failed to do, a summons was sent for Constable Thomas Carroll of Fruitvale, who is more than six feet in height and as strong as he is large.

After a protracted bout, Carroll gave up in despair and Dr. J. H. Callen was called. Three hours later the ball rolled out with three front teeth.

WHATEVER YOU DO, KEEP SWEET.

(By Ella Wheeler Wilcox.)
Somewhere I read a little verse whose author's name was not given, ending with these words: "Whatever you do, keep sweet."

That one line is worth a thousand sermons.

One who looks about him will realize that few people "keep sweet" as they journey along life's troubled way.

One who looks within himself needs question, "Am I keeping sweet?" and happy is he who can unhesitatingly answer "Yes!" Let every woman who reads these words put the query to her own heart and stand before the mirror while she answers it.

"But I have a troubled life," you say.

Show me the soul that has journeyed through untroubled ways from the cradle to mid-life and you will show me an undeveloped character at the same time.

The sweetest as well as the greatest souls on earth have experienced great difficulties and borne heavy burdens. This is universally true of human natures. Therefore if you have not "kept sweet" do not lay it at the door of trouble. Trouble is only acid which tests the metal of character.

If the corners of the mouth are drooping, it is not sorrow which pulls them down, it is dwelling upon your sorrow. Others have borne mightier woes without losing the sweet curves of hope and faith about the mouth—that reliable thermometer of the soul.

Do you find yourself quick to distrust and ready to sneer at and doubt the honesty of your fellows? It is not because you have been especially deceived and injured—others have been equally wronged, yet they have "kept sweet." And because they "kept sweet" life surprised them as they passed on with unexpected pleasures and experiences.

We do not always get from individuals that which we send out to them, but this I know—we get back from humanity that which we send forth with compound interest.

If your old friend disappoints you and fails to give you what you bestow of loyal affection, let it pass—after the sharp pain is over dry your tears and put it from your mind as much as possible.

Keep sweet—and be sure new friends will arise when and where you least expect, and give you the loyal affection you deemed you lost.

If your love has been cast on stony ground—be not bitter and despairing.

Weep sometimes—it is good for the soul! Sad hours are enriching and softening to the nature; even worry may, if she tarry not too long, prove a counseling friend, whose admonitions will be of value, but through it all—keep sweet!

SHAKE IT IN BOTTLE.

Tells The Readers of This Paper How to Prepare The Mixture at

Now is the time when the doctor gets busy, and the patent medicine manufacturers reap the harvest, unless great care is taken to dress warmly and keep the feet dry. This is the advice of an old eminent authority, who says that Rheumatism and Kidney trouble weather is here, and also tells what to do in case of an attack.

Get from any good prescription pharmacy one-half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound ugarion, three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take a teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

Just try this simple home-made mixture at the first sign of Rheumatism, or if your back aches or you feel that the kidneys are not acting just right. This is said to be a splendid kidney regulator, and also a powerful remedy for all forms of Rheumatism, which is caused by uric acid in the blood, which the kidneys fail to filter out. Any one can easily prepare this at home and at small cost.

Druggists in this town and vicinity, when shown the prescription, stated that they can either supply these ingredients, or, if our readers prefer, they will compound the mixture for them.

A Real Romance.

Some time ago two girls in the Post neighborhood went to market with a basket of eggs. They each wrote their name and address on an egg. They sold their eggs to the merchant and went on their way rejoicing. The merchant shipped the eggs in different cases, one going to Cincinnati, Ohio, and the other to Buffalo, N. Y. As a result of these experiments, each of the girls has a flourishing correspondence, one with a Cincinnati man, the other with a Buffalo gentleman. They have exchanged photographs, each of the ladies is wearing an engagement ring and it is reported there is to be a double wedding in Louisville at the Seelback soon.

Dynamite Goes Off in a Man's Pocket

Nicholasville, Ky., Jan. 13.—John Boner, of Camp Nelson, was seriously hurt tonight by the explosion of dynamite which he carried in his pocket. He was an employe of E. J. Curley and was returning home when the accident occurred.

His injuries were of such a serious nature that amputation of his leg was necessary. He is thirty-five years old and has a wife and five children.

OLD BLACK FOX

Caught and Killed After Rambling Thirty Years.

Glasgow, Ky., Jan. 27.—While hunting near Pascal, in Hart county, John Lohle caught a black fox. The animal was unusually large and put up a game fight. The boy disposed of the hide to a local merchant for $1.60, who will, it is said, have it mounted owing to its rarity. This is the first black fox ever captured in this section and has caused much interest.

Thirty years ago Anderson Murray, an old-time "darker" who kept a pack of hounds and hunted much of the time, claims that his hounds started and chased a black fox, and the race lasted for two days. Many thought that the story was imaginary and put no faith whatever in it. However, since Lohle killed the black fox the old darker's story is believed by many.

Another feature is the fact that the fox killed had no teeth in front and its jaw teeth were worn smooth to the gums, showing conclusively that it was an exceptionally old fox. Many believed it to be the same fox chased by Murray thirty years ago. It was caught in the same locality in which the negro claimed he made the two days' chase.

Adams be appointed administrator of the estate of Mr. Carroll. Mr. Adams' bond was fixed at $1,400,000.00 and was signed by the heirs of the estate. The estate is the largest ever administered on in the county and perhaps the largest in this section of the state. Mr. Adams, the administrator, has been bookkeeper for Mr. Carroll for thirty years and perhaps knows more about his private business than any other person living and is better prepared to be administrator than anyone else. The estate is principally in government bonds—amounting to $415,000.00. The balance of the estate is in his property in Shawneetown and in land in this county and in Williams county. The estate will be divided into five parts, equally between the four children and wife.

TAME PARTRIDGES.
Miss Ellen Harrison, of Austin, Ky., set partridge eggs under a hen last summer and hatched quite a brood of young ones, and five out of the bunch lived to be entirely grown and have become thoroughly domesticated.
She expects to raise from the domesticated quail next season.
The quail feed and roost with the chickens, but through the day stay a considerable distance from the house, but at the least disturbance they return to the chickens for protection and always return at nightfall to roost. Miss Harrison has been offered a fancy price for the birds by parties who are interested in their culture and who want them to experiment with, but up to the present she has steadfastly refused to part with them.—Ez.

MONSTER WEDDING CAKE.

Largest Ever Made for Actual Use Baked in Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—What is said to be one of the largest wedding cakes ever made for actual use is receiving its finishing decoration today at a Chicago hotel. It will be sent by express to Hamilton, Ont. The cake is nearly six feet in height, has feet in diameter at the base and weighs practically a quarter of a ton. It will be served at the wedding of Miss P. McColl, of Muscatine, Iowa, to Miss Alice Davis, of Hamilton, January 27. There are to be 600 guests at the wedding reception.
Some of the chief ingredients of the cake are:
Ninety pounds of sugar. Nine hundred eggs; sixty pound of butter; ninety pounds of currants; sixty pounds of raisins; sixty-two pounds of citron; thirty-seven pounds chopped almonds; one hundred and twenty pounds of flour; one and one-half pounds of spice; fifteen quarts of cognac; fifteen quarts of sherry wine; three-quarters of a pound of baking soda; all of the fruit was soaked in liquor for ten days.

CURES INDIGESTION.

All Distress from Stomach and Indigestion Vanishes in Five Minutes.

Take your sour stomach—or maybe you call it Indigestion. Dyspepsia, Gastritis or Catarrh of Stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapensin and let you eat one 22-grain Triangles and see if within five minutes there is left any trace of your stomach misery.
The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the digestive organs become weak; there is lack of gastric juice; the following mixture after each you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and fullness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness and many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is feeble, and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself, after your next meal, that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.
Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a little Diapensin.

WATTERSON WRITES OF

Famous Colored College—Courier-Journal, of Dec. 5th '08.

Berea's Plans for New Career.

Long before the decision of the Supreme Court came to end forever the existence of Berea College as a seat of learning for both the white and negro races the trustees of the institution, anticipating the event, began raising what they called an "adjustment fund"—so-called because its purpose was to accomplish the adjustment of the college to the new requirements. Now that the decision has been made there is nothing left the trustees but to push the work of acquiring the fund and to establish in Kentucky a negro college to take up and perpetuate the labor of Berea for that race, while old Berea devotes its efforts to the educational uplift of the white youths of the mountains, to whom it is so accessible.

The effect of Kentucky legislation having been to close the doors of Berea to colored students, there ought to follow by all means swift and sure steps to provide an institution for them. The trustees comprehend the need and are renewing their efforts with marked vigor and with promise of success. In bringing to pass the establishment of such a school in Kentucky the workers in its behalf will confer a lasting benefit upon the State.

The best friend of the negro race is the South, where the race is most numerous and where its people are best understood. Yet, of all the Southern States, most of whom are devoting capital and service to negro education, Kentucky so far has done least. Such a school as is proposed will be of incalculable value socially and economically, for it will increase the industrial efficiency and raise the moral tone of a large part of the population, while still other advantages must flow from the increased earning and purchasing power of the colored people. We cannot, of course, bring all the young negroes under the power of such a school, but we can train a small army of teachers, each of whom will be imbued with the industrial idea, and they will spread the better spirit and impulse among the masses. As Dr. Frost has put it, "Some such training as was given by master and mistress in the old days must be supplied now through the industrial training teacher in the public schools."

It will involve a large outlay to acquire such an institution, for industrial education requires tools and materials which are more costly than spelling books. The trustees of Berea have set aside $200,000 of the fixed properties of the institution and appropriated the income therefrom for the benefit of the colored people. To replace the funds thus withdrawn from its mountain work and to supplement those funds so as to provide a really adequate school the so-called "adjustment fund" of $400,000 is being raised. Mr. Carnegie and other philanthropists of national feeling have subscribed about $344,000 of the sum. There is a condition that the last $50,000 must be raised in Kentucky, and this is the task that now lies before Kentuckians.

The remaining sum required seems a small enough contribution from the State directly to be benefited from the institution. The colored people of Kentucky are doing their part, they having already subscribed $7,000. But the negro race is not one of wealth. Its people are dependent upon the friendly efforts and generosity of the whites for their advancement and the means for it. Since the salvation of the negro race in America must come through the agency of industrial education, whereby its people may be enabled to become producers of wealth and not dependents, that industrial education cannot be made too easy of acquisition. Dictations of humanity and enlightened citizenship would actuate the white population to offer the negroes every possible opportunity to better themselves. Considerations of self-interest, if the other failed, would point out that the way to shift the burden of carrying the negro race from white shoulders to colored ones in simply educating the colored men to become producers.

In an address before the National Association of Teachers in Colored Schools, Prof. E. L. Blackshear, principal of a Texas industrial school for negroes, alluded to the hole given the negro race by the Southern people. Said he:
"While no colored man needs even a spark of intelligence or appreciation for what Northern white ungrateful for what Northern white and Christianity have done and are doing for negro education in the Southern States, still the fact is not cause us to be ungrateful to the States and municipalities doing for our education."
Moreover, the negro people need not blind one another as to that practical and necessary step to that philanthropic and socially wise, the former of which is the only way to make freedom a reality and to emancipate us from ignorance and poverty. This practical philanthropy takes the form of advice, encouragement and financial help in every undertaking made by the colored people for their own general improvement, such as building churches and acquiring land and erecting buildings for negro educational institutions. It takes the form in many cases of definite encouragement to thirty negroes to acquire farm or town property and of long and indulgent conditions of payment, where these are needed.

No more practical way of aiding the race could be evolved in Kentucky than that of making possible the industrial college proposed by the trustees of Berea College. The sooner the negro is helped to help himself, the sooner he will be independent of white support. Such work as is done by the schools at Tuskegee and Hampton is incalculable, and it is that work which is in contemplation here. Both Tuskegee and Hampton are too far away from this section to be within reach of many negroes of Kentucky. So the need of a Kentucky institution becomes the greater.

Whether the institution be realized by some sort of alliance with the Eekstein Norton University, as has been proposed, or by the establishment of an entirely new plant, the argument is all in its favor, and the duty now confronts the public in general and Kentuckians in particular to make it a fact.

HIS ECONOMICAL MA.

W E'RE fond of jelly at our house. Ma puts it up galore.
But there's one thing she always does that makes me awful sore.
When she makes apple jelly, there ain't never left no core.
Now I love apples, and I loaf around to see what's doing.
And watch her while she peels the fruit and starts the apple stewing.
She cuts the fruit up into halves, divides them, starts them brewing.
And then my trouble starts, I ask "What are those apples for?"
"For making pies all winter, child, I've put these up before."
And of the peeling I make jelly—and even use the core.
And when she cans the cherries—it's just the same old thing.
She even grinds the pits to make some almond flavoring.
The cores, the peelings, pits—all used; I only get a sting!

Pudding Pointers.
In puddings, where wine, brandy, lemon juice or any acid is used, stir it in last, and gradually, or it may curdle the eggs or the milk.
Before you put a pudding in to bake, stop and ask if it will not be as good boiled? The chances are it will be better. But remember that boiling takes twice as long as baking and the pudding should never be touched after it is put in to boil; a jar of the kettle will spoil it.
Remember to put a dash of salt in all sweet puddings.
Always leave room in the bag for the pudding to swell.
In adding water to the kettle care must be taken to use only water which is boiling.
While chopping nut for pudding, always keep it very cold.
After washing currants thoroughly (as is most essential), dry them on a towel; it hardens them to dry them in the oven. To make them plump, pour boiling water over them before drying.

FIND MAD CAPTAIN PERCHED IN TREE

PEOPLE AT EAST NECK, L. I. DISCOVER SKIPPER OF WRECKED CRAFT IN BRANCHES.

HAS BEEN BOTTLE IN HAND

Says It Is Good Because He "Bought It From Murphy"—Officers Set on His Trail Who Lure Him to Lookup.

Northport, L. I.—The schooner Salpae of Bridgeport, Conn., lies high and dry on the shore of Huntington bay, and her 60-year-old captain, one Albert Darn, is on his way back to his home town under escort.

Somewhere between here and Bridgeport there are two sailors, haunted by the vision of a large man with bare feet, waving a beer bottle and calling for Murphy. Meanwhile the sand on Katon's Neck, with which the schooner was to be loaded, lies undisturbed in its prehistoric strata, and Huntington folk are assured that something has been happening.

Three days ago the good schooner Salpae dropped her hook in Huntington harbor, off Port Katon. Shortly, a man put out from her in a skiff, and on landing, was heard to call back to the boat for a pair of oars, saying he had lost his.

The lone skiff operator later opened conversation with Charles Longworth of local habit as to the possibility of his being able to buy a pair of oars in the village. Charles was not up on the subject of oars, and gave him no very valuable advice. Still later, the sailor was seen propelling his skiff back to the schooner by the aid of a shovel, used as a paddle.

Yesterday a man went ashore where some men are building a dock on Katon's Neck and asked for passage to Northport, saying he was from Bridgeport, Conn., and that he desired to return home by train. He had been on a vessel, he said, that had been wrecked, and the captain had become insane. The captain, he said, had threatened to run a bathhook into him, and to escape him he had spent one whole night in the rigging.

But the most spectacular feature of the Salpae's cruise came to the view of the employees of the Chateau des Beaux Arts, at East Neck, as the mists of dawn began to fade early yesterday morning. They were out picking cigarette butts off the front stoop, which is their regular morning chore, when they were hailed from the topmost branches of a tree near by in a guttural and uncertain tongue by a large man in overalls, possessing a pair of very primitive and impressive-looking bare feet. He held on to the beer bottle mentioned before, and an announced that he had just "bought it from Murphy" and that it was very good beer.

When the Beaux Arts employees had decided that it was a man and not a squirrel that was before them, they felt they had good cause to presume that the man was a bit mixed in his ideas. Two officers were summoned, who took up the trail.

The man, meanwhile, had descended from the tree and gone off "to get another bottle from Murphy." The combined sagacity of the local constabulary soon led them to the trunk of the tree, and caused them to find him just as he was knocking on the door of an unused room in the cafe. He opened the officers that the man inside owed him $50. The police managed to lure the wanderer away to the lockup.

He quieted down and ate a hearty dinner, after which a doctor questioned him. After quite a session he ascertained that the man's name was Albert Darn; that he is owner and captain of the schooner Salpae, engaged in freightage sand from Katon's Neck, and that his family resides at Bridgeport.

He came to Katon's Neck in his schooner with a crew of two men. He can give no explanation as to how he came to cross over to the Beaux Arts or how he got there.

KNEW WHEN HE WAS HAPPY.

The soul of an editor who died of starvation was being conducted to the Elvian fields. As they passed the portals of the infernal regions, he asked his guide if he might not go in and look around. The guide consented, but warned him to stay only a few minutes, as he could not wait long.

A long time passed, and the editor had not returned; so the guiding angel went in search of him. He found him before a cage in which a number of doomed wretches were being toasted on red-hot griddles. Over the cage was the sign "Delinquent Subscribers."

"Come," said the guide; "we must be going."
"Don't wait for me," replied the editor, "I'm not coming. This is heaven enough for me!"—Lippincott's.

EUROPE WANTS OUR GRAPES.

Vice-Consul L. H. Munier of Geneva sends a clipping from a Swiss newspaper from which it is noted that more modern methods of grape culture are being adopted in Switzerland. The old vineyards have been attacked by phylloxera, in fighting which the government has already spent $482,500. Now it is decided to replace the old vines with the more robust American vines. To aid the planters in the substitution the government has voted an annual appropriation of $96,500, to extend over a period of 60 years.—Horticulture.

THE CARBURETOR.

The carburetor is an apparatus in which is effected the mixing of the fuel necessary for the operation of internal combustion motors. Such mixture is composed of atmospheric air and the vapors of a liquid hydrocarbon in proper proportions. In order that it may give the best results, a carburetor should furnish an accurately proportioned mixture, that is to say, one containing just the proportions of fuel required, and, moreover, containing such fuel as nearly as possible in the state of vapor.

THOUGHTS ON BUSINESS

BY
WALDO PONDRAY WARREN

WHO IS REALLY THE BOSS?

A DEFINITE understanding as to who is in authority is an important thing for any business. Few things cause more trouble and confusion than leaving men in doubt as to whose orders take first rank. Not to know this fundamental point is to have a feeling of uncertainty, insecurity, and suspended conclusions—a feeling which affects tendencies, attitudes, and the character of the work in hand.

Two men were associated in the management of a manufacturing enterprise, each having charge of a part of it, and both having occasion to come in touch with the other part. Neither one had been given full authority, neither recognized the other as his superior, and harmony did not reign between them. Employees found themselves governed by conflicting instructions, much to the disadvantage and disorganization of the whole enterprise. The trouble did not abate until the owners intervened and established a definite understanding as to the extent of each man's authority.

There is usually one principal reason why such conditions are allowed to exist in the first place. It is the unwillingness to face the problem for fear of an unpleasantness. But this is seen to be a very poor reason when it is considered that the same problem in aggravated form will almost certainly have to be faced later—after much harm has been done, and perhaps an irreparable breach has been made.

DEATH STRUGGLE WITH A MANIAC

WOMAN HAS DESPERATE FIGHT WITH MADMAN IN A HOSPITAL AMBULANCE.

PUTS THUMB ON OPTIC NERVE

Dr. Mary Crawford Has Narrow Escape from Untimely End at Hands of a Lunatic—Timely Aid Given by Policemen.

New York.—Dr. Mary Crawford, the ambulance surgeon of the Williamsburg hospital, for the second time within three weeks had a desperate struggle with a madman she was taking to the institution. The maniac tried to choke her, and probably would have succeeded had not Policemen Selvey and Hugh Gromley, the driver of the ambulance, assisted Dr. Crawford. Her coat was torn and her face scratched, but she took the patient to the hospital.

Shortly after 1 p. m. Brooklyn police headquarters summoned Dr. Crawford and her ambulance to the drug store at Bedford avenue and North Eighth street. There Dr. Crawford found two policemen and three other men holding Michael Ford, a mechanic, 30 years old. Ford had been seen to throw himself before a crostown car, which was stopped before the wheels could run over him. Several men tried to learn from Ford where he lived. Ford attacked them savagely and threw himself in front of another car. He was again saved by the prompt stopping of the car.

Policeman Selvey seized Ford, who knocked him down. Selvey again tackled the madman, who in a fierce struggle tore Selvey's rubber coat and uniform. The maniac attacked men, women and children and caused wild excitement. Selvey was no match for the man, and when another policeman and three citizens went to his aid they had all they could do to get the madman down.

Dr. Crawford gave the maniac a hypodermic injection of morphine. For a few minutes he was quiet, then with a whoop he again attacked his captors. Ford was thrown again to the sidewalk, and Dr. Crawford administered more of the drug. The maniac was then handcuffed and tied with ropes.

Dr. Crawford climbed into the ambulance and Policeman Selvey stood on the step. As the vehicle was proceeding to the hospital Ford broke the ropes which bound him and with his maniacal hands seized Dr. Crawford by the throat. The doctor did not lose her nerve, but pressing her thumbs under the maniac's eyebrows gradually forced him to release his hold on her throat. As soon as the doctor removed her thumbs from the madman's eyes he again attacked her and tried to throw her backward off the seat. Selvey and Gromley went to Dr. Crawford's aid, forced Ford to let go of Dr. Crawford and held him down while the police surgeon administered more of the drug. Ford was then tied with stronger ropes and taken to the hospital.

"This ambulance work I find is becoming more strenuous every day," said Dr. Crawford, "but I am going to stick to it if I die. Ford was the worst case of insanity I have dealt with since I became an ambulance surgeon, and when he attacked me I thought for a moment it was all over with me. He certainly had a death grip on my throat and if I had not pressed his optic nerves and stopped the blood circulating to his brain I guess I would have been a fit subject for the undertaker."

"I expect to have all kinds of experiences while I am ambulance surgeon. The only thing that bothers me is the newspaper accounts of my experiences with such patients as this madman. My folks read about them and keep the long distance telephone busy asking how I fared. Other friends keep me busy answering telephone messages and telling them I am still in the land of the living. While there are some distasteful features of ambulance work I am going to stick to it until my time of service closes."

How to Cure Liver Trouble

Keep Your Bowels Regular and Your Stomach Sweet

People sometimes imagine when they have liver trouble or are bilious that the main thing to do is to take physic. Taking pills and keeping your bowels regular are two very different matters. The use of a violent cathartic does not mean the cure of constipation or the establishment of regular movements. A physic is an emergency remedy, but never a bowel treatment. If the bowels do not move regularly there is a reason deeper seated than the mere clogging up that is removed by a dose of salts or pills.

When that drowsy, tired feeling, with the coated tongue, the dull head pains, the sour stomach, the sallow complexion, constipated bowels and touches of fever come on it is time to take a medicine that will act on the bowels gently and mildly, cleansing and strengthening them, stir up the liver and aid the stomach in digesting the food.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin does this every time. Take a few doses and see how quickly the drowsy feeling leaves, regular bowel movements come back, with a good appetite and perfect digestion, and you soon feel like your old self. It does not gripe nor pain, it acts smoothly, mildly and is very pleasant to take. Wm. Hinckman, Menick, Mich., says: "I was troubled with indigestion and liver trouble. I have used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin with fine results. It is a perfect laxative and I now feel as strong and well as formerly." Wm. Block, Natick, Ill., says: "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the best remedy I ever used for liver complaint or constipation."

Mrs. R. H. Brown, Addington, Ind. Ter., was troubled with torpid liver and constipation. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin gave her prompt relief. All druggists sell it at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

Pepsin Syrup Co., 306 Caldwell Bldg., Monticello, Ill., is glad to send a free sample to anyone who has never used it and will give it a fair trial.

A FALLEN CHRISTIANITY

By REV. A. C. DIXON, D. D.,
Pastor of the Chicago Ave. (Moody's) Church, Chicago.

There has grown up in certain literary atmospheres a cult which ignores, if it does not deny, the new birth, while it insists upon intellectual training, moral culture and humanitarian activity as the only things necessary for this world and the next. Christian experience is explained on natural grounds. The supernatural is eliminated. We are under the reign of law. The Bible is one of several sacred books worthy of our study as literature. Jesus Christ is a great moral and spiritual teacher, superior to all others. It may be, but divide only in the sense that all men are divine. There is a divinity of humanity, and Jesus is the divinest because he is the greatest human that has yet appeared. A greater may appear; indeed, the theory of evolution which rules this school demands that there shall always be something better ahead.

Trend of This Cult.

The trend of this cult of culture is toward erasing infidelity and aggressive unbelief. A young man in a New York town, after two years in a college where there is a learned professor who has written theological books, informed his mother that he no longer believed in her Bible or her Christ. Though he went with her to church and sat with her in the family pew, he refused to bow his head in prayer and took no part in the worship. He informed her that three-fourths of the students in the college had been turned from faith to infidelity by the teaching of the learned professor, whose personality was so winsome that they could hardly refuse to believe all that he said. In another institution of higher learning a reformed Jew, who flatly denies the deity of Christ and has not hesitated to slander the Virgin Mary, has conducted the devotional services in the chapel. The president of a New England college argued before the Boston Baptist Social Union against the necessity and advisability of sending the Gospel of Christ to the heathen nations. "Let them alone," he said. "Their religion is suited to them as ours is to us." This state of affairs comes to a large extent from the fact that higher education has adopted the pagan carpenter theory of naturalistic evolution instead of the Biblical teaching of creation by the fiat of God. After God has been eliminated from the material world it is only a short step to eliminate him from the moral and spiritual world.

Modern Pagans.

The relation between the ancient Greek philosophers and modern evolutionists can be seen at a glance. The "nebular hypothesis" of La Place and Kant is a child of the fire theory of Heraclitus. The "unknowable" of Herbert Spencer is akin to the "infinity" of Anaximander, and the pristine mud of the Greek is as scientific as the primordial cell of the Englishman. And it is a fact which almost startles us that some of these modern evolutionists are as pagan in their religion or lack of religion as their ancient predecessors. Herbert Spencer lived and died a brainy, thoughtful, cultured pagan, who acknowledged no God as worthy of worship or service. Charles Darwin confessed that he had no use for music, poetry or religion, though he was very fond of worms, spending months in the study of their habits. Hegel and Huxley belong to the same illustrious family of modern pagans who ignore or deny the existence of God.

Some devout Christian men, seeing that the trend of the times was toward the acceptance of the pagan theory of evolution, felt that something must be done to save men of learning to Christianity, and they determined, if possible, to find a place in the Bible for Darwinian evolution, with the understanding, of course, that God is the Evolver and that evolution is only his method of creation. And they have to an alarming extent succeeded in doing for Christian thought what Constantine did for the Christian church when he united it with the pagan state. And as Constantine almost destroyed the church by this unholy alliance, these men, though prompted, we believe, as was Constantine, by worthy motives, have placed in the hands of the enemy weapons which have been used for the destruction of the Biblical Christianity.

A Fallen Christianity.

The result is a fallen Christianity as after Constantine there was a fallen church. The spirit which fosters and propagates this fallen Christianity has spread more or less from our colleges and universities to the pulpits and news of our churches, and hinders, if it does not paralyze, the evangelism which had its birth at Pentecost. The hope of the church is in the fact that scholars are beginning to interpret the facts of nature in the light of the Bible. They are refusing to allow a pagan theory of evolution to displace the Biblical creation.

Sikeston, Mo., Jan. 17, 1909.

Mr. S. M. Jenkins.

Dear Sir:—Once more I send you one dollar for the good paper you print, for the people and myself are always glad to receive it for it is just as good as getting a letter from home or from the good people I was raised among, and I can say I am in a good town and with many of my Kentucky friends, and we are at work. We are always glad to see our Crittenden county friends and if Dycsburg knew how we appreciate their items they would surely get a move on them and write more for us to read.

This is sure a fine country for hunting and fishing, and when you take your vacation come out to see us and we will go down in Negro Wolf swamp and kill a deer for they say there is several down there and we sure could sure get one of them.

This also a fine country for working man and you can have just as good health here as any place, and if you do get sick we have a Kentucky doctor (Dr. Daughtrey) and he can fix you up in a very short while. Give my regards to all of the readers of the Record-Press. Wishing you and all of them success in 1909, I remain a reader of your grand paper.

H. H. MARTIN,

Mr. S. M. Jenkins.

Editor Record-Press,

Dear Friend:—You will find enclosed One Dollar to pay my subscription for another year.

Well, Marshall, we are having fine weather, the temperature being 76 degrees here at present and there has been but little frost.

We have ripe tomatoes now, and beans all winter. The climate is fine. The spring crop is being planted—lots of Irish potatoes, some beans and potatoes. I think there will be a large vegetable crop planted this spring. We will ship beans about March 25.

This is a thriving town of 1,200 inhabitants, has a $35,000 hotel and a $15,000 bank building. There is about $100,000 in concrete buildings—all been done in the last three years.

I think we will have a new county inside of two years. The name of the new county will be Seminola. Times are stiff here. The panic caused wages to be cut 25 per cent, though the outlook is now some better.

Oranges have been low here this fall and winter. There is a considerable amount of them on the trees yet.

I would advise a man looking for a change of location to come to this state to make his home.

All the meal, flour, meat, corn and hay are shipped from the north—I generally preferring the Kentucky product.

Well, I would like to see all of my friends in Kentucky. I see in the paper that many of them have crossed over the dark river. I was sorry to see the announcement of Fred Daughtrey being killed. There have been two men killed in this county in the last four years. There is a man in jail sentenced to be hung in five years. Guess he will die there.

Yours truly,

J. A. Kewis

Mama And Daughter Elope Same Evening and Catch Same Train.

Perth Amboy, N. J., Jan. 20.—Nannie Wayland, a pretty young girl of seventeen, met her sweetheart, George Roosevelt, just out of college, in the orchard while the moon was behind a cloud, and after a whispered conversation, she said, "All right, George, I'll be ready!" Next day she went "to visit a girl friend,"

On the way she met George and a quiet little marriage ceremony was performed. Mother was quite averse to such an idea.

Before Nannie left home she told her mother "not to wait supper," as she might be late. Mother said all right. She herself was likely to be called to the city.

After the marriage ceremony George and Nannie boarded a train for New York. The train was scarcely out of the station when Nannie, to her horror, saw her mother was in a seat not far away. Mother was talking to an elderly gentleman who seemed quite solicitous of her welfare. The conductor entered from the rear end of the car, shouted "tickets!" in the usual gentle tone known only to railroad conductors. This caused mother to turn her head swiftly. Her eye fell at once upon George and Nannie. Both deeply blushed and mother was quite excited.

"Why did you follow me?" asked mother, "you would have learned all tomorrow."

"Learned what?" asked Nannie. "Why, that you are to have a new papa. Mr. Garretson and I have been married, dear."

"Well, what do you think of that?" ejaculated George, growing bold. "So have we."

There was almost a fainting spell, but after explanations the two couples continued to New York.

"We will give you our blessing," said George, when introduced to his new father.

CURE SWEENEY AND REMOVE A SPAVIN.

Dr. Sloan's Liniment and Veterinary Remedies are well known all over the country. They have saved the lives of many valuable horses and are a permanent institution in thousands of stables.

Mr. G. T. Roberts, of Resaca, Ga., R. F. D. No. 1, Box 43, writes: "I have used your Liniment on a horse for swiney and effected a thorough cure. I also removed a spavin on a mule. This spavin was as large as a guinea egg. I regard Sloan's Liniment as the most penetrating and effective Liniment I have ever known."

Mr. H. M. Gibbs, of Lawrence, Kan., R. F. D. No. 3, writes: "Your Liniment is the best that I have ever used—I had a mare with an abscess on her neck and one 50 cent bottle of Sloan's Liniment entirely cured her. I keep it around all the time for galls and small swellings and for everything about the stock."

Dr. Sloan will send his Treatise on the Horse free to any horseman. Address Dr. Earl S. Sloan, Boston Mass., Station A.

TWENTY KILLED FORTY INJURED

Glenwood Springs, Col., Jan. 18.—Twenty persons were killed and at least 40 injured, many seriously, in a head on collision between a west bound passenger train and an east-bound freight on the Denver & Rio Grande railroad, between Dotsero and Spruce Creek, 28 miles from Glenwood Springs, at 9.36 o'clock Friday night. It is said to have been due to a misunderstanding of orders on the part of the engineer. Gustaf Olson, of the passenger train, Olson, however, claims he understood his instructions perfectly, but that he misread his watch.
